

The EAA to hold roving exhibitions at MTR

(29 February 2012) In order to raise the public awareness of the role of the Estate Agents Authority (EAA) and to enhance consumer education, the EAA will launch roving exhibitions at some MTR stations in March this year.

The exhibitions will be held at the MTR stations of Sham Shui Po, Chai Wan and Hang Hau respectively. There will be display panels introducing the key functions and work of the EAA and highlighting some points to note for purchasers and vendors in appointing estate agents and during property transactions through analyses of some non-compliant cases.

EAA Chief Executive Officer Mrs Rosanna Ure said, “We look forward to strengthening communication with the public and promoting protection of consumers’ rights through the roving exhibitions.”

EAA’s staff will be on hand at the exhibitions, distributing pamphlets of “Guide to Purchasing Properties” and “Notes on Signing a Tenancy Agreement”, assisting the public to understand the content of the exhibitions and answering questions relating to the EAA’s work.

Schedule of the roving exhibitions:
