

The EAA organised Estate Agents' Children Service Day

(11 April 2023) The Estate Agents Authority (“EAA”) is dedicated to driving corporate social responsibility (“CSR”) among the estate agency trade through organising activities for the trade to give back to the community. The EAA earlier joined hands with Christian Action to organise the “Estate Agents’ Children Service Day” to show care and support to children from the underprivileged families.

A total of 15 volunteers from the estate agency trade came together to join a fun-filled workshop for 30 children in the afternoon of 31 March 2023. The participating children, aged from eight to 11, were from underprivileged families in the Wong Tai Sin District. Led by the workshop instructor, the volunteers teamed up with children in small groups to play interactive games and competitions which stimulated the children’s creativity and helped develop their team spirit.

In addition, packs containing toys and daily necessities were donated by the EAA to the participating children and children from other underprivileged families.

The above activity is one of the CSR projects launched by the EAA with the active participation of the estate agency trade. In the past, the EAA has organised various CSR initiatives, such as “Coastal Clean-up Day” and “Elderly Service Day”. In the future, the EAA will continue to organise more and different CSR activities to help those in need and promote the trade’s participation to contribute to the community together.
